ACCEPT ALLIES' TERMS

Austria-Hungary and Turkey Said to Have Officially Informed Germany of Step.

Amsterdam, Oct. 12.—Austria-Hungary and Turkey have officially informed Germany that they "accept President Wilson's terms," according to reports here last night.

This is the latest development in the race between surrender and the greatest military disaster in history.

Since Austria and Turkey had previously agreed, like Germany, to "accept" President Wilson's fourteen principles "as a basis for peace negotiations," their latest declaration, saying flatfootedly that they "accept" them without any qualifying afterthought means the virtual surrender of Germany's allies.

As far as Austria-Hungary is concerned, the unequivocal acceptance of President Wilson's terms means that she is ready to evacuate the large area of occupied Italian territory relinquishing whatever is left of her military hold on parts of Poland, Russia, and the Ukraine.

As far as Austria-Hungary's armed forces in the Balkans are concerned they are in the same position as Germany's armies in Northern France and Belgium. For them it is not a question of "evacuating," but of retreating fast enough before the Serbo-Italian advance to escape a debacle.

Turkey's troops that had occupied the oil city of Baku, were las reported being withdrawn post haste for "purposes of home defense."

The note from her remaining two allies, which is tantamount to the declaration. "We quit, no matter what you do!" comes as direct confirmation of what has been said, namely, that Austria and Turkey, smarting under the American President's silence toward them pending clearness from Germany, would exert powerful pressure at Berlin for submission to Mr. Wilson's demands.

On the other hand, the Austro-Turkish move is expected to facilitate in no small degree such a submission by Germany, since it provides no food for the excuse, already voiced in a large section of the German press, "we die of our allies."

DEATHS AND FUNERALS

Influenza Continues to Extract Heavy Toll.

Albert Cogan, fifty-two years old, died late yesterday afternoon after a short illness. The deceased was a stationery fireman and for many years was employed in that capacity at the Washington Navy Yard. Recently he had been employed at the plant of the Virginia Shipbuilding Corporation. His funeral will take place at 4 o'clock this afternoon from Wheatley's chapel.

SITUATION IS SERIOUS

Death Rate From Influenza is Increasing at an Alarming rate—Business Seriously Crippled—Doctors, Nurses and Druggists Working Overtime.

Spanish influenza is increasing in this city at an alarming rate. There are few houses in the city where there is not a case of the disease. The death rate is increasing daily despite those who would have the public take a more optimistic view of the situation

Doctors are working overtime but are fulfilling their duties heroically. Druggists are doing their share toward the general good filling prescriptions. The few nurses in the city are inadequate. Undertakers are working day and night and in many instances are unable to respond to the calls.

This is briefly sums up the situation.

This is not written to scare anyone. These are the cold facts and cannot be disputed.

In some instances the whole family is stricken with the disease and left practically helpless.

Never before in the history of the city within the memory of a majority of the residents of Alexandria have conditions been so serious. Each day adds to the death toll of victims of influenza, and each day the number increases. "Where will it stop?" This question is being asked in homes not yet visited by the plague. Persons are offering exhorbitant prices for some one to cook a meal especially those having illness in their homes have been unable to obtain help.

In some instances business houses have been compelled to close temporarily and there are few business firms in the city that have not been seriously crippled as a result of disease.

The best thing to alleviate conditions is to see a physician when you have the slightest sympton of the flu and carry out his instructions to the letter.

TEMPORARY HOSPITAL

Cots Provided For Sixty in Westminister Building—Red Cross Provides $3,000 For Work.

Another temporary hospital for treatment of influenza patients was opened today in the Westminister building of the Second Presbyterian Church. The hospital has accommodations for sixty, that number of cots being provided.

The Red Cross of this city will provide funds for the operation of the hospital, the sum of $3,000 has been appropriated by that organization for the work.

Dr. W. L. Wood, special state health officer, and also of the United States Public Health Service, will be in charge and he has sent for ten extra Red Cross nurses to help out in this city owing to the general spread of the disease.

There also is a temporary hospital in Christ Church parish hall. Later on arrangements will be made to convert other buildings into temporary hospitals if the occasion demands.

EVACUATION OF LAON

Great Strategic Rail Base All That Now Remains of Hindenburg Line

London, Oct. 12. Laon the great strategic rail base and southern hinge of what remains of the Hindenburg line, is being evacuated by the Germans.

News that Ludendorff has at last begun the withdrawal from the Loan pocket, which he staved off until the last moment, came late yesterday at the end of another day replete with triumphs for the allied-American arms.

The clearing of Northern France of the invaders under the terrific pressure of Foch's armies is in full progress. The retreat is spreading northward, though the enemy is expected to cling to Lille, his northern pivot, as long as the utmost risk allows it.

Pershing's army, as much as any of the forces pressing the foe along the Western battle line, helped bring it about. The last German is out of the Argonne forest, and all the way from the east of Rheims to the Meuse and beyond that river, north of Verdun across the Lorraine heights to the Moselle, thence down to Alsace, American troops hold the whip hand. Their smashing attacks west of the Meuse of the last ten days, coupled with the German fear of what may momentarily happen on the Metz and Alsace fronts, kept what remains of the flower of the German army pinned down there to parry the threat of an invasion of the empire.

That enabled the British and Americans and French in the north to reap the full fruits of their break through Haig's Anglo-American forces are plunging eastward through the Cambrai-St. Quentin gap. The French, on their right, are driving toward Guise, twenty-two miles north of Loan, to cut off one of the main lines of German retreat. This city is comparable to what Fere-en-tardenois was in the second Marne battle, and to Roye in the allies' Picardy drive that wipped out the Montdidier pockets.

While Anglo-American troops today pushed eastward from Le Cateau and widened the breach, capturing St. Hilaires-les-Cambrai, Avesnes and St. Aubeter. Gen. Debeny's French army crossed the Oise at several points in its southeastward drive toward Guise.

RED CROSS TO AID SICK

Central Office Opens at Chamber of Commerce—Soup Kitchen at Young Peoples' Building—All Women Willing to Aid in Work Asked to Report at Once.

An American Red Cross committee on influenza has been organized with Gardner L. Boothe as chairman.

A central office will be open daily at the rooms of the Chamber of Commerce from 9 a. m., until 5 p. m. where those willing to help in checking the epidemic will receive necessary information.

Those willing to help in the following capacities are asked to report to this committee at once.

1. Those willing to visit and help care for the sick in their homes.

2. Those willing to help in the soup kitchen which will be open daily in the Young People's building from 9 a. m. to 5 p. m.

3. Those willing to deliver food from the soup kitchen to the homes of the sick. This matter being urgent those who wish to offer their services are asked to do so immediately.

Persons desiring to communicate with the headquarters of the Red Cross at the Chamber of Commerce should telephone 780.

READY FOR BOND DRIVE

House to House Canvass Tomorrow Everyone Should Buy More Bonds When the Solicitor Calls and Help Alexandria go "Over the Top."

All is in readiness for the house to house convass to be conducted tomorrow by the Alexandria Liberty Loan Committee from one to five p. m The spread of Influenza has played havoc with the sale of bonds in Alexandria, as well as all over the country, and this city is far behind in raising its quota of $621,300.

Only seven working days remain, as the campaign closes next Saturday, and every citizen of Alexandria must realize that the success or failure of the campaign depends upon him personally. Germany's greatest victory will be America's failure to raise this loan of six billion dollars on time, and so serious has the situation become that the President has written a special message to the American people urging them to speed up the loan.

More men are needed to canvass the city thoroughly, and volunteers are asked for, and urged to go to the Chamber of Commerce and receive instructions and material.

Because of the present health conditions here there will be no meeting of the canvassing committee at the Chamber of Commerce tomorrow, but every canvasser should leave his home in time to be at the block allotted him and begin work promptly at 1 p. m. Each canvasser has been allotted one block, comprising four squares.

Canvassers will call at the Chamber of Commerce today from 12 to 6 and tomorrow morning from 10 to 12 to get their printed instruction card, their Liberty Loan buttons, flags, pledge cards and receipts.

FUNDS TO FIGHT FLU

Executive Committee of Red Cross Names Persons to Collect to Check Epidemic—$5,000 Needed—Contributions Wanted at Once.

The executive committee of the Alexandria Chapter of the Red Cross has at the request of Red Cross Headquarters, appointed Messrs H. R. Burke, W. A. Moore, Jr., Robert S. Jones, A. D. Brockett, Gardner L. Boothe, and C. S. T. Burke as influenza committee, for the purpose of raising funds to be ussd in the checking of the epidemic in this city and for aiding sufferers who for any cause are unable to aid themselves.

Two temporary hospitals have already been installed, one at Christ Church lecture room, and one at the Westminister Building, which horpitals have been well equipped and both of which will no doubt render efficient service.

It will probably be necessary to have another temporary hospital in one of the other church buildings, as a number of patients are unable to properly care for themselves, and in many instances entire families are sick.

It is the desire of the influenza committee, of which Taylor Burke is treasurer, to raise at least five thousand dollars from the citizens of Alexandria, for the purpose of combating this disease and to aid in alleviating suffering.

A substantial part of this amount has already been contributed by the business men of Alexandria. but for obvious reasons it is impossible, under existing conditions, for the committee to call on every citizen of Alexandria to solicit contributions.

Not a single business man who was approached today by this committee failed to respond liberally, for this most important work.

Contributions can be sent to any member of the above named committee, and all checks should be made payable to Taylor Burke, treasurer.

HUNS' REPLY TO WILSON

Kaiser Said to Have Signified His Willingness to Abdicate That He May Not be in the Way of Peace.

London, Oct. 12.—The Kaiser has declared his willingness to abdicate in order that he may not stand in the way of peace, the Evening Tidningen learns authoritatively, according to a dispatch from Stockholm.

The paper adds that the Kaiser is opposed to the policy of Chancellor Maximilian and the Reichstag majority, and adds that the chancellor may succeed to the throne of Germany.

Basle, Oct. 12.—The National Zeitung announces that Germany's reply to President Wilson was presented to the Swiss minister at Berlin this morning.

Amsterdam, Oct. 12.—Some German papers assert the reply to President Wilson accedes fully to his demands. Others declare that only far-reaching advances are made.

ANOTHER CHURCHLESS SUNDAY

The churches of Alexandria will be closed again tomorrow. Houses of worship in nearby cities will also be closed, and thousands whose wont it is to "assemble themselves together on the first day of the week" will be compelled to forego this pleasure. Bible-reading and offering of supplications in our homes will be in order.

While we are not posing as editors of the international Sunday school lesson slips, we would suggest that those of spiritual inclinations might adopt as the lesson for the day the 91st Psalm, which seems to be appropriate at this time, when pestilence is in our midst. Here it is:

He that dwelleth in the secret place of the Most High shall abide under the shadow of the Almighty.

I will say of the Lord, He is my refuge and my fortress: my God; in him will I trust.

Surely he will deliver me from the snare of the fowler, and from the noisesome pestilence.

He shall cover thee with his feathers, and under his wings shalt thou trust; his truth shall be thy shield and buckler.

Thou shalt not be afraid of the terror by night; nor for the arrow that flieth by day;

Nor for the pestilence that walketh in darkness; nor for the destruction that wasteth at noonday.

A thousand shall fall at thy side and ten thousand at thy right hand; but it shall not come nigh thee.

Because thou hast made the Lord which is my refuge, even the Most High thy habitation;

There shall no evil befall thee, neither shall any plague come nigh thy dwelling.

For he shall give his angels charge over thee, to keep thee in all thy ways.

They shall bear thee up in their hands, lest thou dash thy foot against a stone.

Thou shall tread upon the lion and the adder: the young lion and the dragon shalt thou trample under feet.

Because he hath set his love upon me, therefore will I deliver him: I will set him on high, because he hath known my name.

He shall call upon me, and I will answer him: With long life will I satisfy him, and show him my salvation.

The following pastoral letter has been sent out by the Rt. Rev. John G. Murray, Bishop of Maryland:

"To the Clergy and Laity of the Protestant Episcopal Church in the Diocese of Maryland:

"Our churches will be closed for public worship, obedient to the order of the civil authority.

"In connection therewith I ask that on Sunday, October 13, at noon, all members of our church whomsoever and wheresoever in the diocese offer up the following prayer:

" 'Our Father, who are in heaven, hallowed by Thy name. Thy kingdom come. Thy will be done. Stay, we beseech. Thee, the present scourge among us, heal the sick, comfort the dying, have mercy upon the departed sake of Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen. and console all who mourn; for the Affectionately yours,"

RAVAGES OF THE FLU

The present epidemic is causing more deaths in our army camps than German bullets It is shown that 9,549 Americans lives have been lost in battle this year, and 7,000 have died in army camps in a month All the October draft has been called off and those for November will be passed over, unless the epidemic abates.

Conditions in Alexandria are practically unchanged, while some prefer to believe that the scourge is under control the increasing number of cases and the fearful death toll shows the contrary.

It is noticeable that the majority of deaths are among young people. The old-time grip generally attacked the old and feeble and those suffering from chronic organic troubles. The disease was often fatal to such, but the present scourge seems to aim at our younger people. numbers of children being among the victims.

We have often referred to the fact that Alexandria is seldom visited by a plague. Back in the thirties of the last century yellow fever and cholera were brought to Alexandria from Norfolk and a number of our people fell victims to these terrible maladies.

During our civil war smallpox raged for a time in our midst While some natives of the city died, most of the victims were soldiers and colored persons. In the winter of 1899 small pox of a mild type, broke out in this city and occasioned great anxiety. But few deaths occurred, however.

MUST LOSE NO TIME

The increasing number of deaths in Alexandria during the prevalence of Spanish influenza makes it necessary to expedite funerals from the fact that several may be set for one afternoon. There can be no useless time killing, as the undertakers are kept busy passing from one home to another in order to perform their arduous duties.

No matter how grave the conditions may be that surround us there is always something bordering on the humorous to divert our attention. Several years ago a well-known Alexandria undertaker was conducting the funeral of a colored woman who had been a member of church and of a colored female organization. The remains were followed to the cemetery by a long cortege, and upon reaching the grave in "Penny Hill" the assemblage gathered around and started to sing a hymn. The undertaker, who possessed a vein of humor, espied one of his acquaintances standing some distance away and approaching him said: "Do you hear that hymn? Well, I've been hearing it all the evening. It has thirteen verses and a chorus. I'm waiting patiently for the curtain to fall upon the last act."

There is virtually no time now for hymns now elongated eulogies over deceased ones.

THE WILY BERNSTORFF

Von Bernstorff, now appropriately the German representative at the Turkish capital, is said to loom up as the prospective successor of Prince Maximilian as Chancellor when the latter has spoken his little piece and is no longer needed for the evolution of the Prussian stageplay.

As a contemporary says, Von Bernstorff is precisely the type of cunning cruel, crocodile statesman dear to the heart of Hohenzollern autocracy. His record in the United States was a record of shameless duplicity and dishonor. He was a spy in the dress of an ambassador, a cold-blooded plotter who prostituted a high office to a conspiracy against the lives and interests of the people to whom he was accredited. His words were softer than butter, while he has death in his heart. The Lusitania was one of his "diplomatic" achievements.

We owe Von Bernstorff a debt which we hope to have an opportunity to pay. If he is caught in Constantinople, he should be sent back to us. We have something we want to say to him at close quarters.

THE FUEL SITUATION

The announcement in the Gazette yesterday that there are 940 empty coal bins in Alexandria has sent chills down the backs of 2,400 others who have but partial supplies to meet the cold blasts of winter now hurrying towards us.

The local fuel board has been quick to apprise E. Flood Byrd, federal fuel administrator of Virginia of conditions and are anxiously awaiting his reply.

War brings many trials and tribulations. Food has long since become scarce and high, some articles, not actual necessities, having advanced beyond the reach of most house keepers.

While pestilence is stalking among us and sickness and death are adding to our woes, the fuel situation, never so grave, looms up to distress us.

The appeal of the local board contains language significant and doleful. They say "we are confronted by appalling conditions of suffering and possible loss of life."

We hope our community will not suffer such mishaps through the want of something to burn.

We do not presume to make any suggestions savoring of criticism, but huge banks of coal are seen by thousands of Alexandrians daily as they enter and leave Washington on electric trains. The capital city is being supplied. We expect our apportionment—only this, and nothing more.

THE ANCIENT AND MODERN KING.

Twenty-five hundred years and more ago one of the greatest of ancient kings, as men style greatness—conquered and subjected a great people to captivity. He made a God of his own for all men to worship. All people, nations and languages trembled and feared before him. Whom he would, he slew; and whom he would, he kept alive; and whom he would, he set up; and whom he would, he put down.

What came upon him?

When he boasted of the great city Babylon, "Mistress of the World," which he had built—while the word was in the King's mouth, there fell a voice from heaven saying; "O, King Nebuchadnezzer, to thee it is spoken; the Kingdom is departed from thee!"

The scene is changed.

A great King as men style greatness—laid a plan to subject the nations of the world to his dominion. He overran, conquered and made captive the people of one small nation after another. He worshipped and invoked a peculiar God, fashioned after his own ideas, and thus he boasted:—

"As I look upon myself as an instrument of the Lord I am indifferent to the point of view of the present day."

"The King holds his power by the grace of God to whom alone he is responsible. He chooses his own path and only decides his actions from his point of view."

"There is only one master in this country; I am he and I will not tolerate another."

"There is only one law—my law—the law which I myself lay down."

"The best word is a blow—the army and navy are the pillars of state."

"The army and the Emperor at its head can alone secure the safety of the empire and the peace of the world."

"The foreigner has learned the consequences of offending the German Emperor."

"It is the soldier and the army, not parliamentary majorities and votes, that have welded the German Empire together. My confidence rests upon the army."

Thus he spake to the soldiers of his army:

"Body and soul you belong to me. If I command you to shoot your father and mothers you must follow my command without a murmur."

The Christian religion is founded upon the doctrine of atonement. The Germans have committed sins and crimes greater in the mass than those committed by the whole of mankind since the Christian era, or since the beginning of history—can they atone?

The very title of the ruler of these people will forever stink in the nostrils of all decent people, and all the labors of Hercules could not cleanse it.

The Fourth Liberty Loan is to use "force, force to the utmost, without stint or limit to conquer these people and establish Justice and Liberty upon the Earth.

A SUNDAY MEDITATION

By Rev. Wm. J. Morton, D. D., Rector of Christ Church.

Text

"Be still, and know that I am God."
Psalm 46:10.

There are some sounds which are heard only when all others are hushed. At this season of the year thousands of migratory birds are winging their way southward to sunnier climates High up in the sky by day and by night they pass over our heads, but those who do not know the habits of these feathered tourists are unaware of their passage, and so to those who have no time or inclination to look above, or to listen to their passing music, these little migrates pass over our heads all unnoticed.

But if one will stand and listen in the quiet hours which come at night when the noisy traffic of the streets is hushed, and all is calm and still, these little birds voices will make the upper air vocal.

In the ancient land of Shechem there is a city called Nablus, and travellers tell a legend of that city, that underneath its streets run streams of living water. But the hurried tourist listens in vain to hear the murmur of these subterranean streams. Yet if he be willing to wait until the streets are quiet, and the bazaars are closed, and the children have ceased their play, and night has fallen on the city; then, standing almost anywhere, he may hear the sound of rushing waters under his feet.

In our own southland on some moonlight night in summer time how often at "midnight's baby hours have we heard borne through our windows the sweet song of the mocking bird.

"What power of throat and of lungs, the gift apostolic, the gift of all tongues." Perched on the topmost twig of his favorite tree, he sits like a monarch on his throne, and you are quite willing to grant him unquestioned supermacy among all natural musicians. And if you have been before unacquainted with his ways, you wonder why you had so long overlooked his gift as a singer. But the fault, if fault it be, for this lack of appreciation on your part, is not wholly yours nor his. In the busy hours of the day the sweet singer sat on that same twig and poured forth his entrancing minstrelsy in cheerful glee, but you did not hear because his voice was drowned by other and louder sounds. He had noisy competitors, and your mind was set on other interests. To hear, to appreciate and to enjoy his music it was needed that he be allowed to utter forth his sweet song when other sounds were stilled, and it was equally needed that your attention be udistracted by other thoughts or fancies.

In the feverish rush and pressure of American life today, when all the stress seems to be placed on our activities and our ability to "do things," it is well for us to pause sometimes and have our still hours when we stop andlisten to the voice of God in our souls and consider calmly some of life's great problems. We need these quiet times not that we may escape from life and its problems but that we may understand life better and be better fitted to deal with its problems.

If left to ourselves we would hardly of our own volition choose and set aside such times. But in failing to do so we make a great mistake. If the American Sunday were made more of a day of quiet meditation and rest and worship their is no telling the help it would prove to American men and women and to our American homes. We have gotten to be a bustling, restless, noisy people.

Even in our church services we like sensations, and the constant introduction of the unusual if not of the sensational. The great majority, judging by their non-attendance, do not find Sunday services sufficiently interesting to bring them to the church. This may be in part the fault of the church, but it is equally probable that it is also in part the fault of those who absent themselves from the church. We need to get back to simpler ways, and to learn to value quiet and to appreciate the more common things in life. And we need to take time to examine our own hearts, and to know ourselves better and to get better acquainted with God. "Be still and know that I am God."

Because of the deadly epidemic still raging in our city, tomorrow is to be another churchless Sunday, but it need not be an unprofitable day on that account The church bells will be rung at the usual hours morning and evening, and though they will not call us to public prayer and worship in our church buildings, yet it is the wish of all the ministers of our city that at the ringing of the church bells there be special prayer and scripture reading, and a special recognition of God in every christian home in our city.

St. Paul twice speaks of the "Church in thy house," and Christ assures us that "where two or three are gathered together in My name, there am I in the midst of them." Tomorrow let us one and all claim His gracious presence as the honored Guest in our homes.

THE HONOR OF THE HUN.

The "honorable" Huns, who ask an "honorable peace," are giving their "honorable" answers on land and sea to the President's questions, before the "honorable" Emperor and his "honorable" advisers can pen a reply. Women and children are still drowned and slaughtered on the ocean in the pitiless German way, and French towns are left by the retreating vandals with hardly one stone upon another. Meantime, as they fall back, these "honorable" flok continue to deport into virtual slavery the wretched inhabitants of the territory still in their power.

In a day or two we may have some honeyed words from the Government of Duplicity and Darkness that reigns as the Devil's Vicegerent at Berlin. The President was wise in creating a situation that will force Prussianism to contradict and convict itself. The contrast between its words and its deeds could not have been brought out so nakedly in any other way. "Look on this picture, then on that." Look at the Kaiser proposing an 'honorable peace" in the name of humanity and look at the Kaiser as he "honorably" restores France and Belgium and as he "honorably" murders women and children in order to make the seas free for his "honorable" assassins.—Baltimore Sun.

WHAT IS THE LIBERTY LOAN?

It's forts and it's ships and it's shining guns.
It's squadrons that sweep the sea.
It's all of the circling band of steel
That shall keep all the home shores free.
It's grub and it's warmth for the sailor lad
Far out on the wintry foam.
For the brave jack tar, as he fights afar.
It's the good old "Money from home"

It's rifle and helm and it's bayonet,
It's shovel and shard and shell
For the soldier boy in the olive drab.
Out there on the edge of hell.
It's the soaring wings of the whirring planes
That battle on high alone.
For the lad who is daring "Over there"
It's the good old 'Money from home.'

It's succor and life for a bleeding world.
It's the glimmer of Peace at dawn.
It's the strength of a mighty arm to strike.
It's the gleam of a great sword, drawn.
But, more than all, it's the pledge of love
To the lads whom we call "Our own"
To the boys on land, afloat, on high,
It's the good old "Money from home".

—Ralph E. McMillin in the Southern Churchman.

WHEN

When we have left the Rhine behind
And with a single-centered mind
Have walked into Berlin;
When we have razed the Kaiser's pile
And changed that pirate's lordly style
And turned his guns to tin;
When we have ripped Vienna through
And left the Huns a job to do
In sorting out the wreck—
When we have handed Bill a bill
For damages, for him to fill
And soaked him in the neck;
When we've convinced Attilla's brood
That blood is not a proper food
For decent-minded men,
Then it may be fair time to chat
Of truces and the like o' that,
And dream of peace again!

DECISION REACHED

War Virtually Won by Late Victories Think Military Critics

London, Oct. 12.—A decision has been reached in the field. The war is virtually won.

The concensus of best military opinion here is that it has been won by the great decision in the plains between Cambrai and St. Quentin, which was made possible by the Franco-American attacks on the Champagne-Argonne front, where forty or more good German divisions were pinned down while Byng and Rawlinson broke through in Picardy.

A great German retreat on the whole front as far as Verdun is now believed to be in progress. The enemy is withdrawing his heavy guns and trying to save as much material as possible though the rearward movement of the German troops in the north near Loan and Vouzieres is not yet known to have actually begun.

Upon the weather probably depends Ludendorff's chance to escape complete disaster, but the best he can hope is to withdraw to the Lille-Valenciennes-Mezieres-Metz line and there to hang on during the winter waiting for his inevitable doom next spring.

Hence those military judges are inclined to expect unconditional surrender before winter.

Noble Work of Organization in France

"Wherever a steady line of stretchers passes through the doors of a convent, chateau or portable shed; wherever a hotel has been swept and garnished and white iron beds installed—there one sees a Y W. C. A. hut—one of those fraill affairs which come in sections and in amazingly short whiles transform themselves into sturdy shelters, enlivened by bright pictures home pictures, home cheer, chintz, and brewing tea where war and wretchedness prevails."

This is what Margaret S. Morriss, Acting Director of Young Women's Christian Association Nurses Clubs in France, writes back to America. "The duties of the blue triangle secretary in charge of nurses' huts, France run from keeping open house and providing sustaining cheerfulness for nurses to doing general shopping and running arduous errands for the sake of victory."

"When a Y. W. C. A. secretary isn't playing hostess here, she is generally running about doing off jobs and making herself generally useful. There is always ample opportunity for bringing comfort to the wounded men in the wards, and is no an uncommon sight to see one of these Blue Triangle girls passing among the beds, distributing flowers or exchanging a merry jest with the invalid.

"One boy, grinning cheerfully from between white bandages and looking ridiculously young, begged every new nurse assigned to him, to say how soon he could get back to the front. The Y. W. C. A. secretary, on one of her visits to the ward asked the boy how old he was, and he answered, straightening up as proudly as his bandages would permit: "I shall be eighteen years old next July." This was in August.

"At several of the Base Hospitals, whose long rows of barracks are connected by covered alley ways, the trains bearing the wounded come into the hospital grounds and up to the very door of the large receiving ward."
